Message from our Spiritual Leader (by Stew)

I've been speaking lately about how we are all the same. Well...99% the same, anyway. You probably don't have to trim your beard before you come to Unity on Sundays, but you and I both have fears and doubts, we all judge people (and ourselves) in various degrees; we all miss the mark at times. We've all said and done angry and hurtful things to others and to self. We're all human.

On the other hand, you and I are not just human. We are all expressions of the One Presence and Power. We are all spiritual beings having spiritual experiences. Each and every one of us is the inlet of all there is in God. Sometimes as outlets we fall a bit short of that, but that can never change what we truly are. Beyond the superficial differences between us that seem so real, there is an essential truth of us that is not only the same, it is one. And it is divine.

For me, Unity principles are not about ignoring, resisting or denying our human limitations and forgetfulness, they are more about focusing on our unlimited spiritual potential, remembering it, and allowing it to enfold and enrich our lives. We don't put our heads in the sand and refuse to see what's going on in ourselves and in the world, we just believe that we serve ourselves and the world much better when we stand firm in the truth of our loving, wise selves and bring that out in our thoughts, feelings, words and actions. Our purpose is to bring heaven (goodness, love, kindness, joy, wholeness and peace) to earth. We do that every time we remember and express from our sameness and our oneness.

When I forget my highest truth, which happens often; when I judge or get angry or have thoughts of lack or limitation, my intention is, in that very next moment, to make a different choice. For instance, instead of beating myself up for "not acting spiritual", I intend to remember that I already am Spirit and then make the very next expression of my consciousness reflect that. Instead of justifying or making excuses for my limitations, I intend to affirm my greatness. Instead of blaming myself and others, I intend to take responsibility for what I think, say or do in that moment. And when I invariably still forget, I intend to start the process of making these different choices by accepting that I am human, and sending myself some compassion. Will you join me?

We're all the same love. This is truly a life-changing and world-changing message whose time has come. I feel so blessed to have the opportunity to not only share it week after week, but also to share in it with you, to see it play out more and more in our lives and to witness our transformation on so many levels. It is an incredible gift to me to be part of this spiritual community as we all grow into the huge vision we hold for it, for ourselves and for each other. When I forget my highest truth, it helps me so much to remember that we're all doing this dance together. Together, we are truly creating the kind of world we all choose to live in.

"Beyond the superficial differences between us that seem so real, there is an essential truth of us that is not only the same, it is one. And it is divine."

We now have tubs outside of the Sanctuary for you to drop off your glass, jars and cans. Especially preferred are glass that is a "moneymaker" such as beer bottles and soda cans (California CRV). We would appreciate that these are deposited in the bins empty and clean. While we are on the subject of recycling, please do NOT throw away the plates we use at Hospitality... return the plates to the kitchen sink, we wash (usually Donna Hawksford, thank you) and reuse them. Also, there are a few trash cans around that say "paper only" and by that we mean.... Not dirty napkins, plates or tissues. Do you have any other ideas for ways we can be more "green"? We'd love to hear them.

PRAYER CHAPLAIN CORNER

BY JANICE

Prayer: An Attitude of Gratitude

If the only prayer you ever say in your whole life is "thank you," that would suffice.

~ Meister Eckhart

Such a simple statement, yet so true. How often do we simply stop and give thanks to God, to the Divine, to the Beloved, to the Universe? Do we use prayer only to ask for things we want, or do we simply give thanks and affirm that what we want is already present in our lives and in our selves? The most joy-full part of my role as a Unity Prayer Chaplain is that I get to help those I pray with appreciate and affirm what is already there, but may be below the level of consciousness. As a prayer chaplain, I will not pray that you "become healthy". I will help you to give thanks for, and affirm, the health that you ARE. I will not pray that you will find "the perfect job". I will help you to affirm and give thanks that the perfect job is already there for you. I will not pray for you to "find peace". I will help you to give thanks for and affirm that the peace you seek is who you ARE. God is in all things. God is in all beings. God IS all beings and all beings ARE God. There is nothing that is of God that is not also of YOU. There is no separation except that which we allow our false and restrictive thoughts to create. The 'magic' is that, as we affirm and give thanks, our good increases and our consciousness expands to see blessings everywhere. This is basic Unity principle. What we focus on expands. If we focus on lack, we see and manifest more lack. If we focus on good, we see and manifest more good. Whether this is actually manifestation in action or whether we are simply seeing our world with more grateful eyes is probably a debatable point. I don't know the answer to that question. What I do know is this: I start and end every day by giving thanks to God and I name specifically what I am grateful for. This is as powerful a prayer as any I have ever engaged in and it works in my life. I encourage you to engage in this practice yourself and behold the positive effect it will have on your life. Gratitude. Prayer. They are one in the same.

Namasté!
